FS 102 Study Skills Research: Presentation Assignment Information

Communicate with your group members and select one article that you believe would provide the most benefit for your classmates. You can use your group discussion board, email, text, or any other means your group choose to successfully communicate. Based on the student success study skills article selected, your group will create a presentation to teach your classmates about your research. You will want to create visually effective and informative 8 minute presentation that highlights the importance of your topic and how the information you discovered can be used to increase our success as students.

Your presentation may use any format you wish, with the exception of a written document. In other words, do not write a paper and post it as a presentation.

At a minimum, you should include the following topics in your presentation:

- Why is your topic important? (In other words, why should we listen to your presentation?)
- What was purpose of the article?
- What were the main points of the article? (What are the key things we should know?)
- How can your fellow classmates use this information to further their success in college?
- A demonstration of the study skills strategy.

Post your presentation to the Study Skills Research Presentations Discussion Board. Then review, take notes from, and comment on the other groups’ presentations.

A group grade will be earned based upon the Study Skills Research Presentation Rubric.
